SCRIPT: Recent weather disasters like Hurricanes Katrina and Rita have made it clear that, more than ever, weather matters in our lives. Learning about weather safety is a key element to the new John C. Freeman Weather Museum, opening April 22 in the Houston Museum District. A project of the Weather Research Center, a Texas-based education and research organization, the new museum will provide a fun and stimulating facility for people of all ages to learn about the weather, its history and public safety. The John C. Freeman Weather Museum at the Weather Research Center is located at 5104 Caroline and will be open Tuesday through Sunday from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. For more information, please call (713) 529-3076 or go to www.weathermuseum.org.
